Psychiatric Drug Use of German Shooter Confirmed: Kretschmer Withdrawing from Depression Treatment

by Mike Adams, the Health Ranger, NaturalNews Editor

(NaturalNews) Yesterday we reported on the recent school shooting in Germany, emphasizing the link between psychiatric medications and acts of extreme violence (<http://www.naturalnews.com/025826.html>).

From the facts that were known yesterday, it was already apparent that the shooter, Tim Kretschmer, was either on psychiatric medications or withdrawing from them. His behavior and choice of targets (including a worker at a psychiatric medical school) pointed strongly towards his use of antidepressant drugs, which are known to cause violent thoughts and behavior.

Behind the scenes, I already knew from an industry source that Kretschmer had undergone psychiatric "treatment," but I could not name that source and thus chose not to publish that fact until it could be further corroborated.

But today, the Associated Press confirms it. In a story widely published across the 'net (<http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20090312...>), police investigator Siegfried Mahler states on the record that the shooter (Kretschmer) "underwent several treatment sessions for depression at a psychiatric clinic" and was "...prescribed a session of outpatient therapy, which he never began."

Thus, the shooter was on psychiatric medications and then quit using them. This created a classic antidepressant withdrawal crisis which is exactly what leads to extreme acts of violence against self or others. As we reported in our previous story, virtually every school shooting that has taken place in the last two decades was carried out by those who either take psychiatric medications or are attempting to quit them.

Why can't the media connect the dots?

The mainstream media, as usual, remains mystified about why so many teens would pick up deadly weapons and kill their classmates. They seem to willingly ignore the truth about the rather obvious links between antidepressant drug use and acts of extreme violence. It's almost as if there is a willing conspiracy by the media to apologize for the pharmaceutical industry and avoid mentioning anything that might implicate Big Pharma's drugs in these school shootings.

When will the ignorant people in our world finally realize the obvious? That when you artificially alter a teenager's brain chemistry, you also change his behavior. And interjecting synthetic chemicals into a human brain instead of relying on nutrition and natural medicine that's fundamentally compatible with human biology, you're going to get some rather nasty results.

The deaths of the people killed in these school shootings rests solely on the shoulders of psychiatry, an industry of death.

Blaming the guns, but not the chemical child abusers?

Germany, much like America, is reacting to this great tragedy in precisely the wrong way, banning guns instead of banning the chemical child abuse ("psychiatric treatment") by psychiatrists who bear the real responsibility for these acts of violence in the first place.

If you take away the guns, you will not solve this problem. Violence can be carried out with knives, or arson, or explosives or any number of other tools of destruction that can be easily accessed by a teenager in virtually any country.

The problem with teens today is not, simplistically, that they merely have access to too many guns, but that their minds are being poisoned by psychiatrists who conspire with the drug companies to profit from the pain and suffering of others.

Before the age of ADHD disease mongering, Ritalin drugging and SSRI "treatment" of children and teens, high school students in places like Texas routinely brought their guns to school. They actually kept rifles and handguns in their school lockers (this is not an exaggeration, it's an historical fact).

Despite the easy access to so many guns, nobody got shot. Ever wonder why? Because they weren't all drugged up on psych meds, of course!

School shootings are, without question, a direct effect of drugging teens with psychiatric medications. And unless we stop chemically abusing our children with these dangerous prescription medications, you can bet that the school shootings will continue.

As I stated in 2006 (<http://www.naturalnews.com/020394.html>), there is a war being waged against the people, and the weapons are chemical weapons sold by pharmaceutical companies and distributed by psychiatrists. The innocent casualties of this war include schoolchildren, teachers, parents and even the trigger pullers. We are witnessing a massacre, and it is being pushed forward every day, in virtually every country, by psychiatrists whose own arrogance and greed erases whatever human compassion they may have once held.

There is a War for Profit underway in psychiatric medicine today, and the battleground is now littered with the bloodied bodies of the girls and boys and teachers whose lives were stolen from them by an insidious medical-sounding front group known as "psychiatry."

These are films the psych industry hopes you never see. The last thing they want is the truth to get out about how much blood is on their hands. Those parents who lost their children in this shooting should be marching on their local psychiatric treatment centers, demanding the arrest and prosecution of the so-called doctors who prescribed these dangerous psychotropic chemicals to the shooter who pulled the trigger.

Kretschmer is a victim of chemical child abuse

It is almost certainly not mere coincidence that this German shooter specifically targeted and killed a psychiatric worker. Perhaps somewhere in the back of his subconscious mind, hidden behind the pain and mental torture of psychotropic drug withdrawal, there was a part of his mind that remembered who had harmed him, and he sought to do something about it as his last willful act before being completely destroyed.

Make no mistake: Kretschmer is a victim of chemical child abuse by psychiatry, and it is the psychiatrists who bear responsibility for this great tragedy. Pharmaceuticals made him into a monster by altering his brain chemistry. During his violent outrage, he was not in control of his own thoughts. It is sad that he will be labeled a mad killer when, in reality, he is merely the predictable product of a torturous pharmaceutical experiment still being carried out on millions of children around the world.

Nor is Kretschmer the last violent shooter we will see. As long as the industry of psychiatry exists, the world is an unsafe place for us all. Think about your own coworkers or peers and ask yourself, "How many of them are on psychotropic meds right now?"
